KNOW THY DESTINY.
Madame E. F. Thompson, the great English clairvoyant, clairvoyant and psychical class of the Old World, has now located herself at Hudson, N. Y. Madame Thompson possesses such wonderful powers of sight as to enable her to impart knowledge of the greatest importance to the single or married of either sex. While in a state of trance, she delineates the very features of the person you are married to; and by an instrument of intuitive power, known as the Psychometric, guarantees to produce a life-like picture of the future husband or wife of the applicant, together with date of marriage, position in life, leading traits of character, &c. This is no humbug, as thousands of testimonials can attest. She will send when desired a certified certificate, or written guarantee, that the picture is what it purports to be. By enclosing a small lock of hair, and stating place of birth, age, disposition and complexion, and enclosing fifty cents and stamped envelope addressed to yourself, you will receive a picture and desired information by return mail. All communications sacredly confidential. Address in confidence, Madame E. F. Thompson, P. O. box 223, Hudson, N. Y.

BLUEGRASS FARM FOR SALE.

THE Farm on which I now reside is for sale. It is situated four miles south of Cynthiana, half a mile from Laid's Station, on the K. C. R. R., at which point there is a post office, express office, depot, saw mill and two excellent grist mills that manufacture the best quality of flour and meal. It is within 3 hours ride of Cincinnati, and 1 1/2 of Lexington. It contains about 175 acres, one hundred acres well timbered. The remainder cleared and in the highest state of cultivation. The fencing all in good order. The improvements consist of a comfortable dwelling, partly frame and partly log, well heated and plastered and painted, containing six rooms, cook-house and all necessary out buildings, including two large stables, (with lofts for feed,) large enough to hold and feed 75 mules at a time which can be done without going out of doors, as there is a large well-wooded room extending the whole length of the stables, in which there is a cutting box run by horse power, with capacity and strength enough to cut a large quantity of provender in a short time. There is also a young orchard of select fruit of various kinds now bearing. The farm is supplied with abundance of pure water for all purposes, as there is upon a number of never failing springs (some of them near the dwelling) and South Licking which runs along one side of it. Any one wishing to purchase such a farm, would do well to call and examine for themselves, as the place will be sold for a reasonable price, the payments made easy, and if desired a part of the money can be run a considerable length of time at moderate interest.
I also desire to sell 400 acres of land which lies in Lewis county, Missouri. Said land is situated about 12 miles from Palmyra on the road leading from there to Monticello, and about 16 miles from the Mississippi river, about one half of it timbered land, the timber excellent, the balance cleared of good quality, a little rolling and dry, is in a good neighborhood, and is surrounded by old settlers and finely improved farms. There is a large handsome brick church and school house in sight of the land. Also, a small village and post office near by. Price reasonable, payments easy and made to suit the ability and convenience of purchasers. For further particulars call on

"Darby Doyle" says: "I overheard a moon-struck chap, the other day remark that he loved a certain young lady well enough to die for her." Now I love somebody very much, and

I'd swear for her—
I'd tear for her—
The Lord knows what I'd bear for her;
I'd lie for her—
I'd sigh for her—
I'd drink the Licking dry for her;
I'd pray for her—
I'd slay for her—
I'd watch the house all day for her;
I'd cuss for her—
I'd wuss for her—
I'd furnish something to muss for her;
I'd weep for her—
I'd leap for her—
I'd go without my sleep for her;
I'd fight for her—
I'd bite for her—
I'd walk the streets all night for her;
I'd plead for her—
I'd bleed for her—
I'd do without my feed for her;
I'd shoot for her—
I'd boot for her—
The rival who'd come to toot for her;
I'd kneel for her—
I'd steal for her—
Such is the love I feel for her;
I'd slide for her—
I'd ride for her—
I'd swim against the tide for her;
I'd try for her—
I'd cry for her—
But—damme if I'd die for her.

Basil Duke's Account of Morgan's Raid Around Cincinnati.

From Gen. Basil Duke's History of Morgan's Cavalry, we make the following extracts relating to the raid around Cincinnati:

Gen. Duke, it will be remembered, was the second in command to Morgan on this memorable raid.

"Moving at 5 o'clock A. M. from Bivouac at Summerville, Indiana, the command reached Harrison by 1 o'clock of the 13th of July. Here Gen. Morgan began to manoeuvre for the benefit of the commanding officer at Cincinnati. He took for granted (for it was utterly impossible, moving as fast as we were forced to do, and in the midst of a strange and hostile population, to get positive information regarding any matter) that there was a strong force of regular troops in Cincinnati. Burnside had them not far off, and Morgan thought they would, of course, be brought there. If we could get past Cincinnati safely, the danger of the expedition, he thought, would be more than half over. He expected to be confronted by the concentrated forces of Judah and Burnside, and he anticipated great difficulty in eluding or cutting his way through them. Once safely through this peril, his escape would be certain, unless the river remained so high that the transports could carry troops to intercept him at the upper crossings. The cavalry in the rear could not overtake him as long as he kept in motion, and the infantry could not be transported so rapidly by rail to the Eastern portion of the State that it could be concentrated in sufficient force to stop him. His object, therefore, entertaining these views, and believing that the great effort to capture him would be made as he crossed the Hamilton and Dapton railroad, was to deceive the enemy as to the exact point where he would cross this road, and denude this point as much as possible of troops. He sent detachments in various directions, seeking, however, to create the impression that he was marching to Illinois.

"After two or three hours' halt at Harrison, the division moved directly towards Cincinnati, the detachments coming in in the course of that afternoon. Hoping that his previous demonstration would induce the sending of the bulk of troops up the road, and that if any were left at Cincinnati his subsequent threatening movements would cause them to draw into the city, remain on the defensive, and permit him to pass around it without attacking him, he sought to approach the city as nearly as possible without actually entering it and involving his command in a fight with any garrison which might be there. He has been sometimes accused of a lack of enterprise in not capturing Cincinnati. It must be remembered that Cincinnati was not the objective point of his raid; it was not undertaken to capture that city. Gen. Morgan knew nothing, and, in the nature of things, could know nothing, of the condition of affairs in the city, or whether it was weakly or strongly garrisoned.

"Starting that morning from a point 50 miles distant from Cincinnati and reaching the vicinity of the river after nightfall, he must have possessed more than human means of obtaining information, had he known these things then, and he did not have a rapping medium on his staff. Moreover, of the 2,400 effective men, with which he started, he had not 2,000 left. He could get fights enough to employ this force handsomely, without running into a labyrinth of streets, and among houses, (each one of which might be made a fortification,) with the hope that the city might be unoccupied with troops. Our copperhead friends, who could have given us the necessary information, were too loyal, or too busy dodging Burnside's Dutch corporals to come out.

"The men in our ranks were worn down and demoralized with the tremendous fatigue, which no man can realize or form the faintest idea of until he has experienced it. It is as different from the fatigue of an ordinary long march, followed by some rest, as the pain given by an hour's deprivation of water is unlike the burning, rabid thirst of fever. Had the city been given up to us, and had the least delay occurred in getting boats with which to cross the river, the men would have scattered to all quarters of the city, and twenty-four hours might have been required to collect them. In that time the net would have been drawn around us. But it must be borne in mind, independently of all these considerations, that Gen. Morgan had given himself a particular work to accomplish. He determined, as has been stated, to traverse Ohio.

"To have recrossed at Cincinnati would have shortened the raid by many days, have released the troops pursuing us, and have abandoned the principal benefits expected to be derived from the expedition.

"In this night march around Cincinnati we met with the greatest difficulty in keeping the column together. The guides were all in front with Gen. Morgan, who rode at the head of the second brigade, then marching in advance. This brigade had no trouble, consequently. But the first brigade was embarrassed beyond measure. Duke's regiment was marching in the rear of the second brigade, and had it kept closed up we would have had no trouble, for the entire column would have been directed by the guides. But this regiment, although composed of superb material, and unsurpassed in fighting qualities, had, from the period of its organization, been under lax and careless discipline, and the effect of it was now observable.

"The rear companies straggled, halted, delayed the first brigade, for it was impossible to ascertain immediately whether the halt was that of the brigade in advance or only that of these stragglers, and when forced to move on, they would go off at a gallop. A great gap would thus be opened between the rear of one brigade and the advance of the other, and we who were behind were forced to grope our way as we best could. When we would come to one of the many junctions of the roads which occur in the suburbs of a large city, we would be compelled to consult a host of indications in order to hit upon the right road. The night was unusually dark, and we would set off a large bundle of paper and splinters of wood to afford a light. The horses' tracks would give us no clue to the route which the other brigade had taken, at such points, but we could trace it by noticing the direction in which the dust settled or floated. When the night is calm, the dust kicked up by the passage of a large number of horses will remain suspended in the air for a considerable length of time, and it will move slowly in the same direction that the horses which have disturbed it have traveled. We could also trace the column by the slaver dropped from the horses' manes.

"It was a terrible, trying march. Strong men fell out of their saddles, and at every halt the officers were compelled to move continually about in their respective companies and pull and haul the men who would drop asleep in the road—it was the only way to keep them awake. Quite a number crept off into the fields and slept until they were awakened by the enemy. At length day appeared, just as we reached the last point where we had to anticipate danger: We had passed through Glendale, and across all the principal suburban roads, and were near the little Miami railroad. We crossed the railroad without meeting with opposition, and halted to feed the horses in sight of Camp Dennison. After a short rest here, and a picket skirmish, we resumed our march, burning in this neighborhood a park of government wagons. That evening, at 4 o'clock, we were at Williamsburg, 28 miles east of Cincinnati, having marched since leaving Summerville, in a period of 35 hours, more than 90 miles, the greatest march that Morgan ever made. Feeling comparatively safe here, Gen. Morgan allowed the division to go into camp and remain for the night.

"The disposition for wholesale plunder exceeded anything that any of us had ever seen before. The men seemed actuated by a desire to pay off in the enemy's country all sorts of the enemy had chalked up in the South. The great cause for apprehension, which our situation might have inspired, seemed only to make them reckless. Calico was the staple article of appropriation—each man who could get one tied a bolt of it to his saddle, only to throw it away and get a fresh one the first opportunity. They did not pillage with any sort of method or reason—it seemed to be a fitful, senseless and purposeless. One man carried a bird-cage; with three canaries in it, for two days. Another rode with a chilling dish, which looked like a small metallic coffin, on the pommel of his saddle, until an officer forced him to throw it away. Although the weather was intensely warm another, still, slung seven pairs of skates around his neck, and chuckled over his acquisition. I saw very few articles of real value taken—they pillaged like boys robbing an orchard. I would not have believed that such a passion could have been developed, so ludicrously, among any body of civilized men. At Piquette, Ohio, one man broke through the guard posted at a store, rushed in and filled his pockets with horn buttons. They would, with few exceptions, throw away their plunder after awhile, like children tired of their toys.

"Before quitting Ohio, it is but just to acknowledge the hospitality of the citizens. At every house we approached, the dwellers, thereof, themselves absent, perhaps unable to endure a meeting that would have been painful, had left warm pies freshly baked upon the tables. This touching attention to our tastes was appreciated. Some individuals were indelicate enough to hint that the pies were intended to propitiate us and prevent the plunder of their houses."

A country fellow came to the city to see his intended wife, and for a long time could think of nothing to say. At last a great snow falling he took occasion to tell her that all his father's sheep would be unshorn. "Well," said she, kindly taking him by the hand, "I'll keep one of them."

Two Irishmen were traveling, when they stopped to examine a guide-board. "Twelve miles to Portland," said one. "Just six miles apiece," said the other. And they trudged on, apparently well satisfied at the small distance.

Perhaps the best pun recorded was that inscribed on a tea-chest, viz: "Induces." These words are the second person singular of the verb decoo to teach, and when literally translated become, thou tea-chest.

The Rev. Mr. Mortimer, of Newport, the Rev. Mr. Currie, of Covington, and Rev. Mr. Weeks, of Paris, will hold service at the Episcopal church, in Cynthiana, on next Friday and Saturday nights, and also on Sunday.

We have received from Samuel Stevenson, superintendent of public instructions, his annual report for 1866. It seems from his report these "sculp counties" receive a much larger amount from the State treasurer for school purposes than they have ever paid in as taxes—and they are all roads.

The "Kentuckian" has been enlarging hugely on several extraordinary milch cows in Bourbon county, that they could give as much or more milk than those of any other county. We are authorized to say, by J. W. Carter, of this county, that he is the owner of a milch cow, of the best blood, which if she don't give more milk than any cow in Bourbon, he will pay the price of her to the owner of one that can give more.

On Wednesday the 5th of June, Mr. Wm. Arnold while plowing on his farm, near Havilandville, threw up 599 counterfeit quarters, unstamp, and one five cent piece. Mr. J. H. Miller, of that neighborhood will send us a quantity of them for samples. Some rascal has been at work, but he failed to finish all he commenced.

Next Saturday the young people, and the old too, will hold a picnic in the woodland pastures of John McKee, near Broadwell meeting-house, on the Ruddell's Mills turnpike, three miles from Cynthiana. Everybody is invited, and expected to bring a basket strapped on to the carriage. Good music is engaged for the occasion, and a place prepared for dancing. Our enterprising fellow citizens Hill & Forman, will run a conveyance from Cynthiana to the grounds every hour.

Connersville, in this county, is on the rise. The people are about building a turnpike from Cynthiana to Connersville, and Dr. Blaydes has just finished a saw mill and a flouring mill, and we understand that another big distillery is about to go up. Mort Levi, keeps a large dry goods store and sells goods, and all this taken together shows an unusual prosperity not found everywhere. We are for Connersville—you bet.

Spring chickens appeared in the Cynthiana market some two weeks since and were held at 50cts per head—Cynthiana News.

But what did they sell for? They were held in this market at $4.00 per dozen, but sell for $3, and 3.50—Georgetown Times.

They are being "held" until now—in fact, Chickens "roost so high," in this section, that like the holders, they are considerably over the market.

Speaking of turnpikes, we notice that the county court of Bourbon has appropriated one thousand dollars per mile for the Steels Ford road from Indico's store to Redmon's pike. For the half mile of Pike, which runs in Bourbon, known as the Carlisle and Cynthiana pike, no appropriation was made. A report was put in circulation that this pike had been abandoned. We are authorized to say by one of the directors that the work is progressing rapidly and will be finished this fall. The energetic men of the Paris neighborhood have commenced a road to Ruddell's Mills and have the means to complete it out three miles from Paris, and they now expect assistance from those living on the road, and particularly from those responsible citizens about Ruddell's Mills. This road will give an air line from Paris to Cynthiana. By all means let us have the road.

A CHALLENGE.—Mr. Joseph Northcutt says: I will wager a demijohn of Col. Sam. Ewalt's best whisky, that White Sulphur precinct will cast a larger number of I. T. Martin votes, in proportion the number of votes, than any other precinct in the Senatorial district composed of the counties of Scott, Harrison and Robertson.—True Ken.

We take the bet, and will back Cason's precinct in this county for one gallon, and old Kentontown precinct in Robertson, for another. Uncle Joe Northcutt will have to vote the entire sulphur people to win the whisky. We'll beat White Sulphur—you bet!

The niggers of the South are preparing to hold a grand celebration in honor of their enfranchisement, at Memphis, Tenn. We understand that Brownlow's murderers will be there with their honored chief. Then this motley crew of Abolition black and white Republicans will be complete. They can live together, vote together, and sing together:

"Chalk and Ivory! Heels and shins! Sambo's glory now begins! Go 'way white man! You don't know how to vote right—dat is so. Yaw, yaw, yaw! Yaw, yaw, yaw! De happiest day I eber saw! What's de tickets? Fitch 'em straight! I votes early—I votes late—I votes often—I votes right—I's no ignorant white—Man air brudder—equal born—De Maker's image. (In a hora.) De glory ob de risin' day—De culled cuss from Africa! Oh kinky, n'fuky, silky, oh, If dis ain't glory, tell me so!

MARRIED.
In Cincinnati, Ohio, on Wednesday, June 5, 1867, Mr. Wm. McMillen to Miss Sallie Richter, all of this county.

At the Spencer House, in Cincinnati, on Tuesday, June 11, 1866, Mr. Allen M. Kizer to Miss Nerva Kellar, all of Bourbon county.

At the same time and place, Mr. Joe Kellar, of Bourbon, to Miss Orrie Anderson, of Harrison.

BIRTH.—On the 7th inst. Mrs. Cole Haley, of a boy, weight 14½ pounds.

John N. Farber, of Kenton county, formerly of Brecken county, is a candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney in this Judicial District, subject to the will of the Democratic convention.

I desire to say to the voters of the Ninth Judicial District of Kentucky, that my name will be presented to the Democratic District Convention, which meets at Newport on the 18th of June, for nomination for Commonwealth's Attorney.

May 23 JAMES R. HALLAM.

We are authorized to announce C. Duncan Esq., of Breckin county, Ky., a candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney, for this Judicial District, subject to the decision of the Democratic Convention.

We are authorized to announce Mr. S. T. Wall as a candidate for nomination for the office of Commonwealth's Attorney in this Judicial District, to be elected in August next.

We are authorized to announce Wm. C. Marshall, of Augusta, a Democratic candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney for this Judicial District.

Special Notice
A CARD TO INVALIDS.

A Clergyman, while residing in South America is a missionary, discovered a safe and simple remedy for the cure of nervous weakness, early decay, diseases of the urinary and seminal organs, and the whole train of disorders brought on by baneful and vicious habits. Great numbers have been cured by this noble remedy. Prompted by a desire to benefit the afflicted and unfortunate, I will send the recipe for preparing and using this medicine in a sealed envelope, to any one who needs it, free of charge. Address, JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, Bible House, New York City.

INDELIBLE PENCIL
FOR MARKING LINEN.

This pencil is similar in appearance to the ordinary lead pencil, and will make a clear black mark that will remain after years of wear and washing. It is a great improvement over ink, as it will not dry up, and can be used with much greater dispatch and economy, as there is no risk of blotting. No preparation being required except the dampening of the fabric to be marked, and no troublesome directions to be allowed in its use, it will save much inconvenience to housekeepers, and all who have occasion to mark their clothing.

Notices of the Press.

"The Indelible Pencil for marking clothing is much more convenient than ink, and equally good as to permanency—we judge after several months' trial."—American Agriculturist.

"The Indelible Pencil is invaluable for marking linen, being reliable, and free from the many objections which pertain to the use of marking inks, besides being much cheaper. We commend it to all who wish to be both nominal and real owners of clothing."—Chicago Tribune.

"The Indelible Pencils are remarkable for their ease and neatness with which they can be used. They must eventually supersede indelible ink for marking clothing."—Detroit Tribune.

"The marking inks so commonly used for marking linen and other fabrics are inconvenient and troublesome, each bottle being accompanied by a number of directions, that considerably bother the brains of housekeepers. The Indelible Pencil will prevent this, as all the preparations necessary is the dampening of the fabric which is to be marked, and it will leave an indelible mark thereon."—Scientific American.

"Ladies will be pleased with the Indelible Pencil, a new invention for marking clothing indelibly, without risk of blotting. It will abolish the old plan of using a pen with a bottle."—N. Y. Evening Post.

"A desirable, convenient and useful household article."—Springfield Republican.

"We have used these Pencils in our family several years, and know them to be excellent. We would not be without one under any consideration."—Scioto, Ohio, Gazette.

One Pencil will mark 1500 articles.

REPARATOR CAPILLI.

Throw away the razors, cut-throats and wig.

Destructive of comfort, and not worth a fig.

Come aged, come youthful, ugly and fair.

And rejoice in your own luxuriant hair.

Reparator Capilli, for restoring the hair upon bald heads (from whatever cause it may have fallen out) and forcing a growth of hair upon the face, it has no equal. It will force the beard to grow upon the smoothest face in from five to eight weeks, or hair upon bald heads in from two to three months. A few ignorant practitioners have asserted that there is nothing that will force or assist the growth of hair or beard. Their assertions are false, as thousands of living witnesses (from their own experience) can bear witness. But many will say, how are we to distinguish the genuine from the spurious? It certainly is difficult, as nine-tenths of the different preparation advertised for the hair and beard are entirely worthless, and you may have already thrown away large amounts in their purchase. To such we would say, try the Reparator Capilli; it will cost you nothing unless it fully comes up to our representations. If your druggists does not keep it, send us one dollar and we will forward it, post-paid, together with a receipt for the money, when it will be returned to you on application, provided either of the above is not given. Address, W. L. Clark & Co., Chemists,

ASTROLOGY.

THE WORLD ASTONISHED.

At the wonderful revelations made by the great astrologist, Madame H. A. Ferrigo.

She reveals secrets no mortal ever knew.

She restores to happiness those who, from deleterious events, catastrophes, crosses, in love, loss of relations and friends, loss of money,

&c., have become despondent. She brings together those long separated, gives information concerning absent friends or lovers, restores lost or stolen property, tells you the business you are best qualified to pursue and in what you will be most successful, causes speedy marriages and tells you the very day

you will marry, gives you the name, likeness and character of the person. She reads your very thoughts, and by her almost supernatural powers unveils the dark and hidden mysteries of the future. From the stars we see in the firmament—the mobile star that overcomes or predominates in the configuration—from the aspects and position of the planets and the fixed stars in the heavens at the time of birth, she deduces the future destiny of man. Fail not to consult the greatest astrologist on earth. It costs nothing a trial, and you may never again have so favorable an opportunity. A calculation fee, with likeness and all desired information, $1. Parties living at a distance can consult the Madame by mail with equal safety and satisfaction to themselves, as if in person. A full and explicit chart, written out, with all inquiries answered and likeness enclosed, sent by mail on receipt of price above mentioned. The strictest secrecy will be maintained, and all correspondence returned or destroyed. References of the highest order furnished those desiring them. Write plainly the day of the month and year in which you were born, enclosing a small lock of hair. Address,
